Headline:
Turning much colder on Monday, with some snow showers.

Today:
A band of rain and snow will clear south early, followed by a dry and largely sunny day though feeling bitterly cold in the brisk wind. Some snow showers are possible during the afternoon, these more likely in Norfolk. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Tonight:
A largely dry and clear night although snow showers will continue to affect the county of Norfolk, with negligible accumulations likely. Cold, with a widespread frost developing around midnight. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Tuesday:
Another cold day, with sunny spells but some snow showers pretty much anywhere during the afternoon, more frequent in Norfolk and Suffolk and accompanied by strong winds. Widespread frost overnight. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Less cold and windy Wednesday but cloudier, with perhaps rain overnight. Breezy, dull and somewhat milder on Thursday. Cloudy with patchy rain slowly clearing south on Friday, perhaps sunny later.
